Re: Adam & Ayla Cottrell,

Before we support a missionary at Cherry Street Baptist Church, we check out not only their education and their plans; we want to know about their passion and experience in ministry. I can say without reservation that Adam and Ayla are passionate about their own relationship with the Lord and about reaching others for Christ. They have demonstrated proficiencies in many areas of ministry and excelled in reaching and discipling others. They are leaving a hole in our ministry, but they have been used by the Lord to raise up others in their place.

It has been a great joy to be Adam and Ayla's pastor these last few years. Their hearts for the ministry will serve them well as TEAM missionaries in the country of Thailand. We have watched them grow both spiritually and experientially as students, as part of our leadership team, and now as missionaries. We are excited to recommend Adam and Ayla Cottrell for your consideration for support as a partner to Ricky and Tammy Salmon in Bangkok. If you have any questions about the Cottrells, please feel free to contact me.

For the sake of the Gospel,
